Rockland 9, Camden 8
In the first game of the season at Community Park between the Camden Shells and the Rockland Pirates the Pirates were the victors in a seesaw battle called in the seventh on account of fog with a 9 to 8 score. Rockland's starting pitcher lasted only two and one-half innings and retired with a lame arm, Camden leading 3 to 2.

Barlow came in from right field to take over the mound duties for the Pirates, and "Pooch" Starr went in to play second and this was the change needed to put the Pirates back in the ball game. In the fourth in Starr's first appearance at bat he drove in Duff with a hard smash to left field and in the fifth with the score 5 to 3 in Camden's favor Pooch with the bases full drove the ball down the right field line for a double to score all three runners. In Camden's seventh with the fog coming in fast the Shells filled the bases and on Boynton's double scored three runs before Tate Connon could get the ball from right field to retire Richards at the plate on a nice peg to end the game.

LaCrosse with 4 for 4, Ellis with 3 for 3 and Boynton with four hits in five trips led the batter's box. Boynton's catch bare handed of Miller's long fly to center was the outstanding fielding play.

Newbert & Wallace Have Launching Saturday—Two More Shortly

The Newbert & Wallace Shipyard in Thomaston will launch the dragger Gertrude D., at 12:45 p. m., Saturday for Horace Devine of Oak Bluffs, Mass.

The craft, the keel of which was laid about the first of the year, is 59 feet in length, has a beam of 16 feet and draws 7½ feet. She is powered with a 165 Gray Marine Diesel which is estimated to drive her at a speed of 8½ knots. She has a fish-hold capacity of 45,000 pounds.

She will be equipped with radio-telephone and submarine signal devices. Devine will captain her and have a crew of five.

Due for launching next week from the same yard is the 42-foot party fisherman which has been built for Fred Blaha of Gifford, Conn., who is part owner of the Rockland dragger, Little Growler. She will carry a Rockland registry. Within two weeks, Newbert & Wallace will launch the dragger, Dolphin, for Leonard H. Saunders and Andrew T. Hays of Gloucester. This craft, which has been built on the outdoor ways through the winter, is 87 feet in length, has a beam of 19 feet 8 inches and draws 11 feet 4 inches.

Powered with an Atlas 250 horsepower diesel, she will be capable of 8½ knots. Her fish-hold capacity is estimated at 135,000 pounds.

"LAUNCHED BUT NOT ANCHORED"

Eighty-two Rockland Graduates Go Out Into the World With That Motto

Headed by Class Marshal Clifford Cameron, the 82 graduates of Rockland High School marched onto the stage in the Community Building last night, while a capacity audience admired the interesting spectacle which had as its background a large American flag. Over the center of this impressive group was suspended a white anchor, giving significance to the class motto "Launched But Not Anchored," the words of which appeared on the procession arch. The class colors were dark green and white.

Interpersing the interesting and meritorious program which followed were the processional "Pomp and Circumstance" by the class of 1946, two numbers of the Rockland High School Orchestra, and the recessional, class of 1946.

The invocation was offered by Rev. Ernest O. Kenyon, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church; and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. James F. Savage, pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic Church.

The Salutatory

The commencement exercises were opened by Barbara Koster, winner of second honors, who delivered the salutatory, and who also had the honor of introducing the guest speaker, Dr. Glenn Kendall. Miss Koster's subject was "Difficulties We Face"—a broad subject, it must be admitted.

Every day new problems arise which are as astounding as the issues of war. The United Nations Organization seems to be the answer, but can the member nations work together in harmony to bring about the miracle within their grasp? Within our country there exists a gross amount of indifference.

The people of the United States are divided in regard to the disposition of the atomic bomb. Isolationists tell us to keep it secret and let the rest of the world look out for itself, while internationalists remind us that we have no monopoly on science. It makes no difference whether another country can make bombs in one year or ten.

The point is that it will be able to make them in a very short time. When this happens our cities will be open to the same sort of destruction as those of Japan. The work of scientists everywhere, including enemy countries, created this bomb. If their work had not been available, development at this time would have been impossible.

The situation in Germany today is becoming alarming. Antipathy toward the American occupational forces is displayed openly. German youths returning from the war offer a most perplexing problem. They declare their dislike for our troops and promise revenge when they return to power. These same young men are organizing groups of teen-age boys and girls, trained under the nazis, for apparently harmless club meetings. Until Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters ordered the removal of all ardent nazis from public and important private positions many of these nazis had been placed as mayors, and teachers because they appeared more competent than the other applicants. We must not allow the military to rise again.

Nationalism is being abolished and internationalism established in its stead. This move is going to provide the greatest strain of all as far as the future of the world is concerned. Provisions for the disposition of atomic energy must be made. We must realize that one wrong step could mean the entire destruction of the world. We must look out for the hungry people of the world and together with the other powerful nations stamp out famine and desperation. Last but by no means least, is the problem of the occupation of conquered countries.

The Valedictory
To Lucille Mank fell the distinction of delivering the valedictory by virtue of being the highest ranking student in the Senior class. And right well did she measure up to that responsibility. Miss Mank's subject was "Education in World Peace."

There is no longer any security for peace-loving democratic people until the world reorganizes itself so that nations can live together without the possibility of a large-scale war breaking out among them. A peace based exclusively upon the political and economic arrangements of governments would not be a peace which could secure the unanimous, lasting and sincere support of the peoples of the world. The peace must, therefore, be founded upon the intellectual and moral solidarity of mankind. The eradication of the nationalistic prejudices and petty provincialism is not impossible. A New Industry

Pioneer Lumber Company Will Conduct Lumber and Sawmill Business

The Pioneer Lumber Company is the name of a new corporation located in this city, according to a certificate filed in the Registry of Deeds Wednesday morning. Its officers are: President, Minor H. Haskell of Barnardston, Mass.; treasurer, Martha T. O'Donnell of Northampton, Mass.; vice president, Alan L. Brewer of Easthampton, Mass. These officers constitute the board of directors. Charles T. Smalley of Rockland is corporation clerk.

The parties interested in this new industry have been conducting a lumber and saw mill business in upper Park street for several months upon premises formerly occupied by the Coca-Cola Company but some time ago purchased from the City. A lot on Pleasant street, near the old circus ground, where it is planned to locate a modern structure for the purpose of continuing the same line of business and application has been made for a permit from the Building Inspector.

The City Council, meeting Wednesday night to act on a tabled amendment effecting the area in which the Pioneer Lumber Co., has applied for a building permit, passed the amendment.

The area declared industrial by this amendment is bounded on the North by Pleasant street; on the South by Holmes street; on the West by the Maine Central Railroad right of way and on the East by a line established 100 feet West of Columbia avenue and extending from Pleasant to Holmes.

This amendment will permit the company to move their operations from their present locations at the Coca Cola bottling plant, which is between New County road and the Northern boundary of Pleasant street, across Pleasant street and onto land known as the circus ground, as they signified their willingness to do at the City Council meeting Monday night.

(By The Roving Reporter)

Thanking this paper for its report of his recent wedding anniversary, James Grant of Hall Quarry writes: "Backward, looking backward to happy days and happy faces and glorious, grand characters you are keeping clean and clear The old Courier-Gazette."

And what a fine thing it is to have a nice friend like Mr. Grant.

A program of the Golden Jubilee, which closed in Detroit yesterday, has come to my desk—a magnificent get-up of 178 pages, illustrated with scores of half-tone cuts, descriptive of the automobile industry which has made the Michigan metropolis one of the greatest cities in the country. With the program came a card signed simple, "Hymie." Of course it could be nobody else but Hymie Rosenbloom, a former Rockland boy and World War I veteran, who is growing up with Detroit. He has my thanks and best wishes.

The man who is said to have laid down a ten-dollar bill after obtaining two pounds of butter is credited with having more dollars than sense.

We still miss that faithful old equine which was used by the city's street cleaning crew, but the members say that the day's work can be done two hours faster with the use of a truck. Gasoline horsepower has the call.

Lewiston papers recently published the death of Vivian Bearce, 67. Baseball fans of a generation ago were applauding his efforts on the Rockland diamond.

One hundred indignant Maryland citizens have protested to the authorities against the practice of nude dancing in the moonlight. Presumably a committee of investigation will be appointed.

Book Review

Building Your New Home. By Mary and George Catlin. A. A. Wyn Publisher, New York.

Who hasn't wished for a book with a thousand or more of the needed answers to the questions which come up for valuable information when one plans to build a home, and wishes to put into it all the conveniences which modern building can give, if one knows the proper way to plan it all and at least expense.

George and Mary Catlin decided to try it out when they needed a home; and they were so expert in decisions and procedure that they were deluged with requests to plan homes for others and this is why they took up for their life's work, building homes for those who wished their advice in the housing problems and have written this excellent book, which gives experience gleaned by them from years' study.

Out of their wealth of knowledge and experience, they are able to point ways to save money in the building, but put into it, all the attractive items so often left out. You will thank your lucky stars you found this helpful book if you are planning to build a new home.

"MAKE IT A MILLION"

[EDITORIAL]

HILDRETH SHOWS FINE RECORD
Reduction of the State's bonded debt by $3,500,000, to its lowest point in 18 years, was cited by Gov. Hildreth in a radio address Wednesday night as among the accomplishments of his first administration. This condition, he said, has been brought about without the imposition of new taxes, and in the face of vastly increased living costs. The State debt meantime has been reduced from $20,991,500 to $16,728,500.

"More than one and three-quarters of a million dollars was also appropriated by the Legislature for long-overdue new construction," Gov. Hildreth said. Among the principal items, he pointed out, were new buildings at the Bangor Hospital, Augusta Hospital and Pownal State School; two new fish hatcheries and a new heating plant at the Hallowell State School For Girls.

Other appropriations went for eradication of Bang's Disease, for research and an experimental farm for the blueberry industry, for development of the State park program, and nearly a million dollars to provide temporary working capital for several State enterprises. The $25,000 appropriated to the blueberry industry will be paid back to the State, and the money being used as working capital is available for return when necessary, he told his listeners.

Gov. Hildreth said a saving in interest to tax payers of $150,788 had been accomplished by refunding the Waldo-Hancock Bridge bonds, with no change in the maturity dates of the bonds and the addition of a five-year call feature.

BREAD THE STAFF OF LIFE

Peter G. Pirrie, editor of a New York bakers' trade paper painted a dismal picture of the bread situation in an address before the New England Bakers Association at Poland Spring Tuesday. A survey conducted by his paper showed that bread production had fallen off 33 percent. Pirrie sees conditions growing worse steadily, and predicts that three-quarters of all retail bakeries will be closed June 22. We are beginning to appreciate more deeply the condition of starving Europe. The famine is striking nearer home.

WHAT WILL IT REPORT?

The legislative research committee, headed by State Senator Edward B. Denny, Jr., of Damariscotta is preparing its report for the special session which is to be held the week of July 7. Just what it will recommend in regard to the veterans' bonus is a matter of conjecture. It was just stated when the report will be made public.

CONSCIENCE MIGHT WORK

A plan under consideration by the United States Government for rationing wheat, flour, and bread down to retail store level has considerable merit, for it would provide equitable distribution to millers, bakers, and their outlets. But, in stopping short of individual rationing, it does not adequately meet the consumers' problem. With bread limited to 75 percent of normal sales, the 25 percent reduction very likely would be unequally borne by non-favored customers and those whose working hours preclude early shopping.

However, we believe the plan could be made to work if Americans were properly encouraged to place themselves under a system of honor rationing. At present, there is altogether too much scrambling to fill one's own larder to the brim, regardless of whether a neighbor's goes empty. This is partly due to thoughtlessness and uncertainty as to just how much the individual is entitled to buy freely under the world-sharing program.

Many an American's troubled conscience would be relieved if definite quotas were set for each person or family, with heavier amounts for manual laborers and special needs. It should not be too difficult for the Government to estimate the allotments, as Great Britain has done in readjusting her bread rationing program in case it should prove necessary. Americans could then be placed on their honor voluntarily to abide by their quotas. And it would not surprise us if in this case conscience might work so well coupons would not be necessary.

—Christian Science Monitor.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Many pairs of Rockland eyes were turned skyward Tuesday when 49 fighter planes passed over the city in a northerly direction.

Motion pictures in the interest of an Army enlistment drive were shown at the Lions meeting Wednesday. Dana Newman's challenge to the Kiwanis Club was sponsored by the club, which has become more courageous with the advent of young blood into the membership.

"The Rockport Farm Bureau will hold a rummage sale in the Masonic Temple Hall, Rockland, on June 20, at 10 a. m."

The Rockland High School Alumni Association will tender its annual reception and dance to the members of the graduating class tonight at the High School building. The reception will start at 7:30 and will be followed by a business meeting with roll call of classes, a program, refreshments, and dancing. Special guests at the meeting in addition to the graduates will be members of the class of 1896 who are celebrating their 50th anniversary.

The Rockland police force is almost entirely outfitted in the new type uniforms ordered some time ago. They are patterned after the New York style and carry a light blue stripe of medium width down the outside seam of each trouser leg and a band of the same material on the coat sleeve about four inches from the cuff. The purchase was made through J. F. Gregory & Sons who were the low bidders when bids were invited by the purchasing some time ago. The Fire Department personnel is also being outfitted. The uniforms are double breasted blue serge with brass buttons for the Chief and Captain and silver buttons for the drivers.

The newly formed recreation committee has received gifts of $50 each from Senior and Junior High School Student Councils to be used for equipment for the children's play ground. The students have made repairs to fence and buildings and spread gravel at Community Park. It is hoped that proper equipment and a paid attendant may be obtained through public support and make this children's playground as helpful and as highly successful as was its predecessor on the site of Community Building.

Lest we forget—Next Monday is Primary election day. Interest in Knox County centers upon the County Attorney contest between A. Alan Grossman and Frank F. Harding. There are three candidates for the representative berths in Rockland, Fredric H. Bird, Ruth A. Ellingsworth and John W. Lane, and two in the Warren, Washington, Union and Rockport class—Arthur E. Johnston of Washington and Curtis M. Payson of Union. The polls close at 8 p. m., daylight time.

Graduation

possible—but it requires education. It is of primary importance that all nations be taught to have faith in the future, faith in God.

The nations of the world also need to be educated in the field of democratic tolerance. Tolerance, to be successful, starts in the neighborhood, stretches forth to the community, to the city, to the State, to the nation, and then to the world. No nation has the right to feel superior to another. When a nation such as Germany does have this superiority instilled in the minds of its people, it means a long struggle to show them that all men are equal.

This Nazi regime has now been annihilated and it is the United Nations task to build up a tolerant Christian, democratic state. To do this, the education of mind and heart is absolutely necessary. In all countries patriotism has been inculcated through teaching history, and in the main, the study of history concerned itself more with the glories of the battlefield than with the progress of ideas which have benefited mankind. In all countries children have left school with a knowledge of their nation's military heroes and almost complete ignorance of the men and women who have contributed to humanity or the abiding ideals in religion, literature and science.

The great and terrible war which has now ended was a war made possible by the denial of the democratic principles of the dignity, equality and mutual respect of men. It would seem, then, that the wide diffusion of culture, and the education of humanity for justice and liberty and peace are indispensable to the dignity of man and constitute a sacred duty which all the nations must fulfill in a spirit of mutual assistance and concern.

The commencement speaker was Dean Glenn Kendall of the School of Education, University of Maine, who chose for his subject "Always We Are Enroute," developing his text in a manner which compelled closest attention on the part of the students and the audience at large.

Back, back in the annals of history, a journey has always been something to set men's imaginations aglow. Seldom has the destination been as important as the things award to the student making the greatest progress was presented to Mildred Tolman, a member of the Junior Class. Class letters were awarded by Principal Frew. Several songs were given by the school glee club under the direction of the school musical director, Mrs. Cooper. All parts were well delivered and showed the hard work on the part of the students, teachers and all connected with the graduation.

along the way. Education is a journey. There was a time when many people thought of it as a destination; boys and girls went to High School and they and their parents considered that they had reached a stopping place when they received their diplomas.

Today's belief of education is different. It is well expressed in these words "Education is not a destination. It is a journey; always we are enroute."

Thus in our modern fast changing world if we are to keep up, and be able to change as conditions change, if we are to continue to understand new machines, new tools and new methods; if we are to keep from being old fogies, placed on a shelf, education must continue, and all of life be a journey with each of us seeing and learning and understanding new things all the way.

And as we make this journey we need to remind ourselves of our starting place—our heritage.

1. This is my country. It is a land of hope and promise, of treasure, of wondrous possibilities.

2. This is my liberty. I may choose my work, my place to live. Let me recognize this liberty as the achievement of a long human struggle, inspired by ideals of justice and friendliness.

3. This is my school and community. I have enjoyed its services, my friends, my school, my activities.

4. This is my opportunity. It is an opportunity to enter into the fullness of my heritage, to have courage to be kind, and to set goals for himself.

As we treasure this rich heritage our starting place, let us cherish the obligation to change and to improve. In education, for example, many of our communities do not provide a modern education program for children and youth, modern playground facilities, modern library facilities, and only as these are made available to all our children and youth, can we hope for progress.

Each new generation has to win anew its right to freedom, to liberty.

Each new generation has to decide anew what are the important things they want for themselves and their children.

The pleasant duty of awarding the diplomas fell to the lot of Edward C. Moran, Jr., a graduate of Rockland High School, who is today chairman of the Rockland City Council. His noteworthy remarks follow:

"The recent war concluded at such huge cost of lives, suffering and treasure should give to Americans a new standard of values. Too many of us have been worshipping false gods and losing the finer things in life. We now have a new realization of what democracy really is, how precious it is, how much it means to each and every one of us. We have looked across the ocean and have seen human beings cruelly tortured and killed solely because of the accident of their birth, their religion, or even their ideas. What would not those people have given for democracy? We must ever improve, and never lose our democracy. Democracy is not self-functioning or self-perpetuating as many nations have learned to their cost. We must work at it, and for it, to keep it."

"We have fallen far short of the ideals and possibilities of democracy. Democracy needs enlightened citizens—men and women who have individual personalities, who have opinions of their own based upon adequate knowledge so that their opinion is worth something, and who have the courage to stand up for the truth. Democracy needs healthy citizens; the recent high rate of rejection for military service is a danger signal of the first magnitude. Democracy needs patriotic citizens—men and women whose blood tingles and whose eyes sometimes fill with tears of pride when they see the 'Stars and Stripes' parade by. Democracy needs citizens who have faith in God, citizens who measure their lives and others by their character rather than by worldly attainments. Finally, democracy must have service by citizens—citizens who do something for their country, their state, and their home town.

"This occasion is rightly called 'Commencement.' You are on the make of a new life. What you make of that life depends on you. It will be easy to join the throng who forget that education is a never-ending process, taking advantage of the blessings of a democracy to which you do not contribute, and selfishly hoping that through the efforts of others it will last. It will be more difficult, but much more satisfying to your soul, to resolve here and now that you will maintain your idealism, unaffected by those who scoff; that you will keep on learning, ever seeking the truth, and have worth-while opinions and the courage to express them, regardless of the current winds of popular opinion; that you will measure yourself and others by the standard of character; that you will carry throughout life a faith in God, and a determination to practice it, no matter how many times you fail; and finally, that you will consecrate yourself to service to your nation, your state and your home town, so that all through your life you can honestly say 'I am a good citizen.'"

"Representing the citizens of Rockland, I extend to you your congratulations, their best wishes, and their confidence in you. Wherever you go, our hearts go with you. We truly believe that all of you are 'Launched, But Not Anchored.'"

CLASS ODE
We're leaving you, dear Rockland High
Our work is now complete
We start new to find ourselves
A high and noble seat
Each of us has a part to play
We know that they were best
For now we need that knowledge
To help us in our quest
Farwell to thee, we'll always keep
You in our memory
So here's a toast a hearty toast
To you, our Rockland High
Not only on the football field
Nor on the track but when
You hear for people shout aloud
For Rockland High again.

Each new generation has to decide anew what are the important things they want for themselves and their children.

The pleasant duty of awarding the diplomas fell to the lot of Edward C. Moran, Jr., a graduate of Rockland High School, who is today chairman of the Rockland City Council. His noteworthy remarks follow:

"The recent war concluded at such huge cost of lives, suffering and treasure should give to Americans a new standard of values. Too many of us have been worshipping false gods and losing the finer things in life. We now have a new realization of what democracy really is, how precious it is, how much it means to each and every one of us. We have looked across the ocean and have seen human beings cruelly tortured and killed solely because of the accident of their birth, their religion, or even their ideas. What would not those people have given for democracy? We must ever improve, and never lose our democracy. Democracy is not self-functioning or self-perpetuating as many nations have learned to their cost. We must work at it, and for it, to keep it."

"We have fallen far short of the ideals and possibilities of democracy. Democracy needs enlightened citizens—men and women who have individual personalities, who have opinions of their own based upon adequate knowledge so that their opinion is worth something, and who have the courage to stand up for the truth. Democracy needs healthy citizens; the recent high rate of rejection for military service is a danger signal of the first magnitude. Democracy needs patriotic citizens—men and women whose blood tingles and whose eyes sometimes fill with tears of pride when they see the 'Stars and Stripes' parade by. Democracy needs citizens who have faith in God, citizens who measure their lives and others by their character rather than by worldly attainments. Finally, democracy must have service by citizens—citizens who do something for their country, their state, and their home town.

"This occasion is rightly called 'Commencement.' You are on the make of a new life. What you make of that life depends on you. It will be easy to join the throng who forget that education is a never-ending process, taking advantage of the blessings of a democracy to which you do not contribute, and selfishly hoping that through the efforts of others it will last. It will be more difficult, but much more satisfying to your soul, to resolve here and now that you will maintain your idealism, unaffected by those who scoff; that you will keep on learning, ever seeking the truth, and have worth-while opinions and the courage to express them, regardless of the current winds of popular opinion; that you will measure yourself and others by the standard of character; that you will carry throughout life a faith in God, and a determination to practice it, no matter how many times you fail; and finally, that you will consecrate yourself to service to your nation, your state and your home town, so that all through your life you can honestly say 'I am a good citizen.'"

"Representing the citizens of Rockland, I extend to you your congratulations, their best wishes, and their confidence in you. Wherever you go, our hearts go with you. We truly believe that all of you are 'Launched, But Not Anchored.'"

CLASS ODE
We're leaving you, dear Rockland High
Our work is now complete
We start new to find ourselves
A high and noble seat
Each of us has a part to play
We know that they were best
For now we need that knowledge
To help us in our quest
Farwell to thee, we'll always keep
You in our memory
So here's a toast a hearty toast
To you, our Rockland High
Not only on the football field
Nor on the track but when
You hear for people shout aloud
For Rockland High again.

The bride wore a blanket!

Social curiosity is a good old American custom! Mrs. Rain-in-the-Hair just itched to know what kind of a design decorated Miss Minnie-Ho-Hum's wedding blanket... what the Campfire Ladies of the neighboring tribes were up to... and what ponderous name had been inflicted upon the latest addition to the Chief Sour-Puss family. Why, she would have given all her wam-pum, and the best scalp in her husband's collection to boot, for a society reporter on the local WIGWAM NEWS!

And though we've come a long way since those Bow and Arrow days, curiosity is still a universal trait! To keep you posted on the activities of the local smart set, you'll find newsy accounts of home-town social events in the Society Section of the
